ELECTION RETURNS

Doubtful States Are Now Reduced to Two.

CALIFORNIA AND NORTH DAKOTA

McKinley Will Have at Least 265 Votes in the Electoral College and Probably More — Latest Correct Figures.

New York, Nov. 5.—Returns received up to noon to-day reduce the doubtful states to two—California and North Dakota. Washington, Wyoming, Kansas, and Nebraska, which were in doubt last night, are transferred to the Bryan column, and Delaware, Oregon, South Dakota, Indiana, and Kentucky are placed in the McKinley column. The vote in Kentucky is close, but advices indicate that the state is republican by a small plurality. Delaware and Oregon are also close states, but are apparently carried by McKinley. The latest news from California and North Dakota is that in the precincts so far counted McKinley leads, but the margin of votes is so small that both states should be still classed as doubtful. The latest returns indicate that the electoral votes of the states will be cast as follows:

THE SENATE.

Figures Prepared by Joseph F. Smith, a Friend of Major McKinley.

Canton, O., Nov. 5.—Joseph F. Smith, who is one of Major McKinley's closest political friends and who has been a member of the McKinley household during the campaign has been doing some figuring on the senate. He says that from the best information at hand today it appears that the senate of the United States after March 4 next will consist of forty-nine sound money republicans and democrats and forty-one silver democrats and republicans. This grouping does not indicate the number of supporters that Major McKinley's administration will have on these issues. A number of sound money democrats will oppose the republican tariff policy and probably three of the silver republicans will be in harmony with it.

New York, Nov. 4.—Returns of the vote for congressmen are still lacking from a number of districts, and an exact list of the members of the house of representatives in the fifty-fifth congress cannot be given. Both branches of the legislature are controlled by democrats and the majority of counties in the territory elect the free silver ticket.

Treasury Officials Expect the Deposits of Gold To Be Continued.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Treasury officials express the opinion that the treasury will be from now on for some time a large gainer in gold. Nearly all the gold recently imported, it is expected, will be deposited in the treasury in exchange for Sherman notes and United States notes. The deposits, which began yesterday, already amount to $2,362,390, deposited at New York and currency taken for it. The treasury has on hand $40,000,000 Sherman notes and $58,000,000 United States notes, which can be utilized for exchange for gold. Assistant Secretary Curtis says that, in addition to the treasury gaining gold by exchanging legal tender notes for gold, he expects a large influx of foreign gold.

WATCH THE COUNT

Bryan's Advice to Democratic National Committeemen.

MUST GUARD AGAINST MISTAKES

Populist Headquarters in Washington Not Yet Ready To Give Up the Fight—Faulkner Even Says He Is Still Hopeful.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 5.—Mr. Bryan has received a number of telegrams asking for definite information in regard to the election and has given out the following general answers: "The democratic national committee claims enough states to give a majority in the electoral college, but the vote is very close in several of the states and the result cannot be known positively until the entire vote is counted. In all close contests it is wise for both sides to watch the returns to guard against the possibility of a mistake, intentional or unintentional."

NOT READY TO SURRENDER.

Populist Headquarters Still Assert That They Have Hopes.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Populist headquarters was quiet this morning, but a number of hopeful followers of Mr. Bryan were there and declined to give up the fight. A statement was given out to the effect that Mr. Bryan had carried every southern state except West Virginia, Maryland and, possibly, Kentucky, but it was thought the latter state would swing into line. Bryan, it was held, had carried every state west of the Missouri river except California, Oregon and North Dakota, all of which, it was claimed, would probably go for him on later returns. Indiana and Minnesota were in doubt, and if they went for Bryan it would elect him. Silver men, it was claimed, would have 150 members in the house of representatives, and it was absolutely certain that the silver men would control the next senate. It was further stated that the populists had elected over twenty congressmen, have secured governors in three states, and certain officials in two or three more states. At democratic headquarters Senator Faulkner still declines to to concede Bryan's defeat. He is still hopeful, he says, that later returns will prove faborable to the democratic candidate. He is anxiously awaiting official returns from Kentucky which would change the complexion of the situation.

JOY IN NEWFOUNDLAND.

McKinley's Election Believed To Assure a Reciprocity Treaty.

St. Johns, N. F., Nov. 5.—General satisfaction is expressed throughout Newfoundland with the result of Tuesday's presidential election in the United States. It is believed here that the accession to power of a republican administration will make practicable the arrangement of a reciprocity treaty with the United States providing for the free entry of Newfoundland fish into American markets in return for the free admission of American flour and pork to this colony. The local banks will remove the embargo in American silver coin to-day and accept it at its face value.

Predicts a Period of Prosperity.

New York, Nov. 5.—Gen. Powell Clayton made the following statement last evening: "In my judgment the immediate effect of our victory will be the restoration of public confidence, which is all that is necessary to cause money to come from its hiding places and go industriously to work again. If it shall turn out that we have a working majority in the United States senate the country may look for prompt legislation for the procurement of ample revenue to meet all proper public expenditures. After March 4 I confidently look for the commencement of a period of prosperity never excelled in the history of America."

Claims of Kansas Populists.

Topeka, Kas., Nov. 5.—Fusion headquarters this morning claim Bryan electors by 12,000; state ticket by 14,000; seven out of eight congressmen, five out of the six judges of the appellate court, and a majority of twenty-six in the legislature on joint ballot.

CANADA'S MINERAL WEALTH.

Discoveries of Corundum and Asbestos—A New Gold Field.

Montreal, Nov. 5.—A valuable discovery of a stone called "corundum," which is akin to emery, has been found in the county of Hastings, Ont. This stone is now imported at a cost of about $80 per ton. Dr. Dawson, director of the geological survey, has reported the discovery to R. W. Scott, acting minister of the interior. Mr. Scott learned that the land upon which the discovery was made belonged to the crown lands, and he therefore had it withdrawn from settlement. It is said that there are other veins of the same stone extending beyond the crown lands. The provincial department of mines of Ontario has received a sample of asbestos found on the line of the Kingston and Pembroke railway in South Renfrew. The asbestos is of the hornlende variety, and a test shows that it contains .68 or two-thirds of 1 per cent. of water, whereas the asbestos of commerce contain 13 or 14 per cent. When heated and the water is driven out ordinary asbestos will crumble readily, but this sample is not affected by fire. With the asbestos was sent a sample of soapstone of good quality, and the deposits of this mineral are said to be unlimited.

ACCUSED OF LARCENY.

Specific Charge Against ex-County Treasurer Adams of Brooklyn.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Nov. 5.—The specific charge against ex-county treasurer Harry H. Adams, who was indicted last week for grand larceny in the first degree and arrested at his home yesterday and arraigned in the county court before Judge Hurd, pleading not guilty with leave to demur, being then released on $5,000 bail, is that on October 28, 1892, he "feloniously appropriated to his own use" a fund of $2,067.22 which had been given to him as trustee for keeping by surrogate George B. Abbott of this city, acting in his official capacity. The sum is part of a deficit of $89,000 found in Mr. Adams' accounts in 1893 and 1894 after a long examination of his books by experts.

GEN. FLAGLER'S REPORT.

Chief of Ordnance's Recommendations Regarding State Militia Arms.

Washington, Nov. 5.—Gen. D. W. Flager, chief of ordnance, in his annual report reviews his recommendations of last year for arming, equipping and increasing the efficiency of the state militia. They contemplate allowing the National Guard to turn in their obsolete and unserviceable arms and receive their value in an appropriation, and the issue to the guard of Springfield rifles in place of old arms. This would give the militia some valuable service pattern supplies in exchange for practically useless material now in possession of the states.

Alonzo H. Quint's Death.

Boston, Nov. 5.—Dr. Alonzo H. Quint, D. D., who died suddenly yesterday morning of heart disease, while at the Congregational house, was born in Barnstable, N. H., March 1828. He was graduated at Dartmouth in 1848 and at Andover Theological college in 1851, and to the last he took a prominent part in the affairs of the church. For many years he was editor of the Congregational Quarterly. He served as chaplain of the Second Massachusetts infantry from 1861 to 1864, and was a member of the state legislature from 1881 to 1884.

British Press Comment on the Election of McKinley.

HIS OPPONENT'S FATAL MISTAKE

The News Says Bryan Attacked the Commercial Stability of the Union, and That the Community Has Given Him His Reward.

London, Nov. 5.—The Daily News to-day, in its comments on the election of Major McKinley to the presidency of the United States, says: "Mr. Bryan committed the fatal mistake of attacking the credit of the United States. A man who runs amuck against the commercial stability of the union simply breaks his head against a wall. Mr. Bryan assailed the foundations of commerce and the commercial community has given him his reward." The News article ascribes McKinley's enormous majority, not to his own merits, but to the demerits of his opponent, and contends that he was not returned for the purpose of reviving the tariff, but to maintain the gold standard and a pure dollar. "Major McKinley," the News says, "represents more than any modern president the general judgment of the American people, regardless of class or of party, and if he recognizes this fact he may be a great and will certainly be a successful ruler."

No Reason for Rosy Prophecies.

The Daily Chronicle says: "We offer our hearty congratulations to Major McKinley, in so far as he represents national finance, on which alone modern credit can be based; but the record of the republicn party is too bad to encourage the hope of much good resulting from its success. We cannot see the reason why the American people should indulge in any rosy prophecies of prosperity. The future depends upon conditions little connected with McKinley's success." The Chronicle denies that the result of the campaign is a landslide, even assuming that the present estimates of the standing of the candidates will be verified, and says the surprise is not that Bryan received so few votes, but rather that he secured as many as he did. "It is a sombre reflection," the Chronicle concludes, "that anything like a general depression will rauge so many citizens upon the side of wildcat currency schemes and virtual repudiation and even anarchy."

The Standard's Views.

The Standard says: "The complete rejection of Bryan's tempting programme addressed to indolence, incapacity and cupidity shows that these qualities are less widely distributed in the United States than Bryan would have had us believe. There has been a revolt of the honest and loyal citizens who are solicitous for the fair name and fame of the republic, and the Bryanites astonished the world by the comparative paucity of their numbers. The hopelessly ignorant and savagely covetous waifs and strays of American civilization voted for Bryan, but the bulk of the solid sense, business integrity and social stability sided with McKinley. The nation is to publicans, 1 sound money democrat, 114 democrats and 32 populists, silver republicans and fusionists, as follows; be heartily congratulated."

German Press Comment.

Berlin, Nov. 5.—The Boersen-Courier, commenting on the result of the presidental election in the United States, says: "McKinley's election is synonymous for the world with confidence in and the revival and stability of America's and the world's commerce, which has been disturbed by the deep-laid agitation which has existed of late." The Taegliche Rundschau predicts that the election of Major McKinley to the presidency will serve as a remedy for the existing disastrous conditions.

RIOT AT LINCOLN.

Political Crowds Clash and Fisticuffs are Indulged In.

Lincoln, Neb., Nov. 5.—A small riot occurred yesterday afternoon in front of the democratic headquarters on Ninth street. A large crowd of Bryan supporters were receiving bulletins when a crowd of republicans, headed by a University glee club, attempted to force a way through the crowd. Fisticuffs were indulged in, the windows of the headquarters building smashed, but there was no fatal or serious injuries. The riot was soon quelled for sheer lack of space in which to fight.

Chairman Jones Alleges Fraud.

Chicago, Nov. 5.—Chairman Jones of the democratic national committee said this morning: "We cannot lose. The republicans are perpetrating frauds. Indiana is for Bryan. Iowa's later returns are our war. Our people say Kentucky is all right. California and Oregon have gone for Bryan. I have no fear of West Virginia, and I do not concede McKinley's election." Mr. Jones' statement is not borne out by the returns.

Bryan's Two Jersey Counties.

Newark, N. J., Nov. 5.—Bryan carried two counties in New Jersey, Huntingdon by 500 plurality and Warren by 800.

CAMP COOKING OUTFIT.

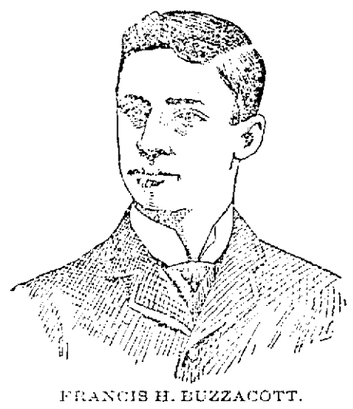
A Private Soldier's Important Military Invention.

When Packed, on the Nesting Plan, It Occupies But 25x36x15 Inches of Space—Romantic History of Francis H. Buzzacott.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

The distinction of being the first private soldier whose inventive genius was recognized by his government, while he was still serving in the ranks, belongs to Francis H. Buzzacott, of Chicago—a man whose history reads like a romance, who served for three years in the United States navy and ten years in the army, and whose pet ambition, the perfection of a military camp cooking outfit, was attained in circumstances which would have discouraged most inventors. His first recognition came to him in the form of an official communication from Washington to the effect that his oven had been adopted for use in the regular army; and since then the governments of various European states, notably Great Britain, Germany and France, have investigated his device with a view of supplying their huge armies with it.

Mr. Buzzacott was born on the Welsh coast, Christmas day, 1858. When ten years of age, contrary to his parents' wishes, he went to sea on board a vessel bound for the South African coast. The treatment he received was such that when the ship arrived on the coast of Natal he deserted and joined the British army, then engaged in subduing the Zulu tribes. After some parley he was engaged as messenger boy for Col. Baker's famous regiment, serving in that and other capacities until the massacre of the British troops at Yorkes' Drift, when an attack of fever prevented him from following the army. Casting his lot with some friendly Horrentots, who were on the way to the diamond fields, he found employment in DeBeers' general store at a salary of $10 per day, small wages at that time and place, when eggs sold for 25 cents each and goats' milk was worth a shilling a quart. Wearying of the fields, young Buzzacott joined a party of deserters from the army, bound for Cape Town, whose progress was terminated by the appearance of a detachment of "Mounted Rifles," and subsequent inglorious arrest. Desertion on the boy's part not being capable of proof, he was turned loose and pursued his way toward Cape Town in company of an emigrant party. There he attempted to secure a berth as boy apprentice in a vessel en route to Melbourne, but was informed by the master that room could not be made for him. Instead of being discouraged he stowed himself away in the ship's hold and made his appearance when hunger forced him to forsake his retreat. Rough weather, caused, according to the sailors, by the fact that the vessel had sailed on a Friday, worked the the crew into a frenzy of superstition.



FRANCIS H. BUZZACOTT.

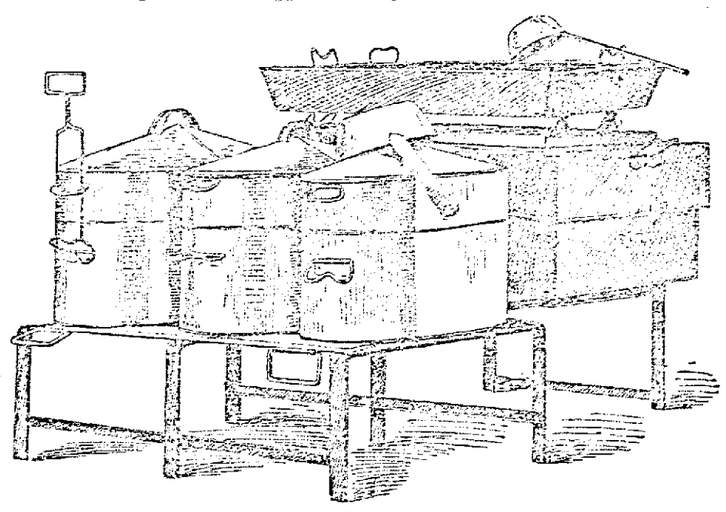
The mariners mutinied and compelled the captain to run to port for safety; and thus the young fellow made his second appearance at Natal.

His story was widely published and the little stowaway soon found himself bound as apprentice to the steward of the then famous Natal club; but, disliking the place, he took French leave, was pursued, and arrested by the Kaffir police. Influence of white colonists secured his release and he started out once more for the diamond fields. At Pieter Maritzburg, the capital of Natal, he joined a relay of soldiers who were detailed to transport the body of the prince imperial to Port Natal and permitted him to ride for a distance of some 30 miles on the artillery caisson bearing the prince's remains.

After this experience the young adventurer resumed his nautical career, visiting Madagascar, Zanzibar and Mozambique, from which point he sailed to Marseilles, France, and from thence to New York, Hamburg, Trieste, Calcutta, Bombay, Hong Kong and Yokohama. At the latter port he enlisted as seaman in the United States ship Ossipee, upon the occasion of the transfer of the admiral's flag from the Trenton, whose term of service had expired. After three years' service he was honorably discharged, and made his way to New York city. There he shipped on a New Bedford whaler for a whaling, sealing and walrus hunting cruise in the Antarctic and Arctic oceans, and virtually sailed from pole to pole.

The winter of 1880-81 found Buzzacott in New York—without means and without work. An effort to reenlist in the navy was frustrated by the ship's doctor, whose examination he failed to pass. Commerce was at a low ebb, and the demand for sailors on trading vessels was nil. Walking down street one day he was attracted by the posters in front of a United States army recruiting office, and this incident resulted in his enlistment. Like many others who are unfamiliar with a soldier's life, he regretted the step almost as soon as it had been taken, and determined to desert in the spring. However, he conquered his disgust, and is now heartily glad that he did not dishonor himself by running away. In due time he was sent to the recruiting depot at St. Louis, and subsequently assigned to the Fifth cavalry then stationed in the heart of Indian territory.

Soldiers in the regular army learn a great many things, among them the art of plain cooking. Buzzacott's experience on shipboard served him in good stead when it came to this phase of campaign life, and from time to time he constructed little labor-saving devices. His success led him to plan a cooking outfit for military purposes, but his first attempts turned out miserable failures. The obstacles in his way were numerous. The space to carry such an outfit would have to be, in the first place, limited; the utensils would have to be strong and yet light in weight, and the shape in it would have to conform to certain regulations. Then, again, the heat, rough usage, accidents and falls would ruin almost any stove, and therefore the army cooks cling with faithful tenacity to the smoky "camp fire" with its disagreeable smoke and uncertain heat.



MILITARY COOKING OUTFIT READY FOR USE.

To overcome the prejudice of officers and men a stove would have to be invented without doors, grates, hinges, nuts, bolts, bars or screws, an article without separate parts, and one requiring neither fitting in nor adjusting.

Our inventive trooper thought of all these things, and although his experiments were not always successful he kept everlastingly at it. His monthly income of $13 did not allow him to put his ideas in proper form, but he had faith in himself and his device, and after five years' service in the cavalry and five more in the infantry he had perfected a military cooking outfit which at once attracted the admiration of his superiors, who called the attention of the war department to the invention. Not until then had the idea of patenting the outfit suggested itself to Mr. Buzzacott; and when he was informed of the amount required to secure a patent the fee seemed like an unattainable fortune to him.

But where there is a will there is a way, and by borrowing 50 cents here and a dollar there he secured the necessary sum. But in order to repay his friends, he had to dispose of his patent rights for a term of years, until by cleaning and pressing his comrades' old uniforms he earned enough money to regain possession of his precious papers. In the meantime the war department had tested the outfit, and in the course of time placed an order for a few. These worked so well that orders began to come in quite rapidly, and at present writing 2,000 of the outfits are in actual use in the United States army, and 2,600 more have been purchased by national guard organizations, representing utensils sufficient to prepare food for an army of 200,000 men in camp.

His success in the United States led Mr. Buzzacott to patent his invention in Canada, Great Britain, France, Germany, Austro-Hungary, Russia and Belgium, and all of these nations are at present corresponding with him with a view of making his invention part of their camp equipment. The British war office some months ago ordered four of the outfits to be sent to the royal arsenal at Woolwich, where they have been subjected to a severe and satisfactory test.

Like most inventors Mr. Buzzacott has, as his record shows, had many ups and downs, but since his retirement from the army he has been able to take life rather easily. He lives in a pretty and daintily furnished two-story cottage of his own, with his wife and two bright little girls, drives a handsome pair of horses and devotes the rest of his leisure time to the cultivation of flowers. While he could use more capital to advantage, he is not seeking financial backing, although his foreign contracts may make the extension of his business imperative.

SINCERITY INDORSED.

He Was After Facts and He Got Them But —

The politician was practicing the gentle art of mingling. He was being as agreeable as possible to everybody he came across and trying to make friends. His tour brought him to the region where he was personally unknown. Like Haroun Al Raschid, he resolved to benefit by the opportunity to hear a few candid expressions with reference to himself and his career. Stopping at a blacksmith shop where some farmers were standing, he engaged one of them in conversation. After a few observations of a general character he said:

"Is Jon Judson Blank pretty well known around here?"

Without suspecting that the fourth to last mentioned his own name, the native answered:

"Yes. Only we don't go ter all that trouble when we speak of 'im. We just call 'im old Jud Blank."

"He's a pretty shrewd statesman, is he?"

"Wal, he thinks he is," was the response, with a discouraging accent on the "he."

It was an embarrassing moment, but the seeker for encouragement pulled himself together and said:

"There's one good quality, however, that I don't believe anybody will deny him."

"Mebbe there is."

"He must be given credit for sincerity."

"Now you've struck it. It was only this mornin' that I heard a feller givin' him credit fer sincerity."

"Ah! What did he say?"

"He said that maybe Jud Blank wasn't so much ter blame after all; that if he had more sense he'd probably be different."—St. Louis Republic.

A Fatal Admission.

The earnest-looking man in the hotel office laid down his paper. He had been reading of a lynching and there was a deep grow of indignation on his face. "Human life," said he, to the man next to him, "is held at too cheap a rate. Too cheap a rate, sir."

"Right you are my friend, right you are," said the other man, in tones of sober acquiescence. "Here you can go and get five, ten or 20 on your life in a company at rates so cheap that I almost blush to mention them to you. Allow me," he continued, diving into his pockets and laying on our a handful of circulars, "to offer you a few leaflets which will elucidate—"

But the earnest man was fleeing at that very moment.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Used to It.

A groan of horror escaped from passing pedestrians as the scaffolding gave way, and the form of the house painter was seen to drop through the air. He caromed on the third-story cornice, struck the telegraph wire in front of the second-story windows, shot out into a pile of bricks on the sidewalk and rolled to the pavement with a thud.

Strong men turned away their faces. A woman fainted. The engineer, who was getting a breath of air in the areaway, hurried up the stairs and stooped over the prostrate form. As he did so the man rose to his feet with a spring and brushed himself off his feet.

"Are you hurt?" asked everybody.

"Hurt?" was the contemptuous response. "I've ridden a wheel for five years." — Chicago Tribune.

Tobacco in Wisconsin.

"It is not generally known," says a Wisconsin man, "that the state of Wisconsin is a large tobacco grower. Of course, only the lower grades can be grown in so cold a climate, but we supply a western plug manufacturer with almost all of their coarser filler. If one cares to see a beautiful growing crop he should take a drive through lower Wisconsin at the present time. To all appearances a finer yield than stood in the fields of that state. The recent copious rains, coming as they did just after a good proportion of the crop had been tapped, insure a large growth."

OSTRICH PLUMES.

Feather Tassels of the New Thread for Boas and Capes.

There has been a new departure in the manufacture of ostrich feather trimming. The feathers themselves have been transformed from the sprightly, curly tips to a stem with long fringe hanging from its tines. The attempt is to make them droop like paradise feathers, as that is the craze of the hour. The fringe is usually in a different tint from the rest of the feather. A white feather, for instance, will have a yellow fringe about eight inches long.

It appears to best advantage, however, when made into tassels and used to trim boas and capes. This material is not new; it is merely a new way of using the feathers themselves. The stiff, rangy stem, which has always been so much in the way of progress in feather manufacture, has at last been removed, and the soft flues are found pliable. The fringe is made by simply twisting the flues together, three or four being used to make one string for a feather, and more according to length wanted when a tassel is to be made. The tassels on the end of the white feather boa mentioned are about 18 inches long and as thick as a man's arm. It took four girls ten days to twist the 4,000 ends used in these tassels.

Small tassels are used to trim feather capes and collarettes, and in this way they very much resemble the fur tails that edged fur capes last year. Instead of the bushy mink tails used on fur boas we shall see soft feather tassels and ostrich boas during the coming season. They are dyed in all colors, but the prettiest combination is white and yellow. A white feather collarette has yellow tassels about eight inches long, set around the bottom at intervals of six or eight inches. There is a sort of jabot of yellow tassels in front.

A very handsome black cape has green tassels, which is a fashionable combination now.

Out of a pound of feathers containing from 60 to 80 plumes about eight tassels can be made of the size described on the white boa. It is a new industry, but there are already 100 people at work in the factory. The product is called plume de sache. The manufacturers intend to use it in connection with novelties in fur goods. There will be ostrich tassels on fur muffs and boas, and it is possible that we shall soon see a soft fabric woven out of the silver threads.

Feather muffs with ostrich tassels are being made to go with the ostrich boas. A large firm in New York holds the patent on this material, but it is being scattered broadcast all over the country, and there is every indication that it will be the leading trimming of the coming season.

In making this feather thread the very best quality of plumes are used, as a poor grade would give a stringy fringe that is not pretty.—N. Y. Sun.

THANKSGIVING DAY

The President Issues the Customary Proclamation.

THURSDAY, NOV. 26, DESIGNATED

All Our People Asked To Forego Their Usual Labors and Render Up Thanks for Our Prosperity and Peace.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The president has issued the following Thanksgiving day proclamation: "The people of the United States should never be unmindful of the gratitude they owe to the God of Nations for His watchful care which has shielded them from dire disaster and pointed out to them the way of peace and happiness. Nor should they ever refuse to acknowledge, with contrite hearts, their proneness to turn away from God's teachings and to follow with sinful pride after their own devices. To the end that these thoughts may be quickened, it is fitting that on a day especially appointed we should join together in approaching the Throne of Grace with prayer and supplication. Therefore, I, Grover Cleveland, president of the United States, do hereby designate and set apart Thursday, the 26th day of the present month of November, to be kept and observed as a day of Thanksgiving and prayer throughout our land. On that day, may all our people forego their usual work and occupation, and, assembling in their accustomed places of worship let them with one accord render thanks to the Ruler of the Universe for our preservation as a nation and our deliverance from every threatened danger, for the peace that has dwelt within our boundaries; for our defense against disease and pestilence during the year that has passed; for the plenteous rewards that have followed the labors of our husbandmen, and for all the other blessings that have been vouchsafed to us. And let us, through the mediation of Him who has taught us how to pray, implore the forgiveness of our sins and a continuation of heavenly favor. Let us not forget on this day of thanksgiving the poor and needy, and by deeds of charity let our offerings of praise be made more acceptable in the sight of the Lord."

TOLD BY YOUR TONGUE.

Although It Is Silent It Speaks Volumes to the Doctor.

Doctors do not trust to the tongue so much as they used to but the number of things they learn from it is surprising. The "furry tongued" coated is a tongue covered with hair far through which a lot of little red dots are just visible as almost certain sign of scarlet fever. When it is red, dry, narrow and pointed physicians have seen by that. If it is very pale you have lost blood or are suffering from poverty of blood or some wasting disease. If there is a thin white coating you have sought a doctor or are feverish. If the coating is yellow probably your liver is out of order but people always have a coated tongue and people who keep their mouths open a great deal have yellowish tongues caused by the dust of the air splashing. When a person swallows an acid poison the tongue shows what kind of acid it was, carbolic acid leaving it white, sulphuric acid blackening it, nitric acid staining it yellow. Caustic potash produces a grayish stain, and lunar caustic a pearl gray mark. The tongue may be coated from severe pain, worry, anger, fear or overwork, without indicating bad health. A trembling tongue shows strong emotion, lead-poisoning, debility, or too free a use of intoxicating liquors. A really healthy tongue ought to be a rosy red, moist and constantly changing form. Nervous people put out their tongues quickly and draw them in fast. Phlegmatic people put theirs out in a leisurely manner. Old people generally have coated tongues, whether well or ill, and very foolish people have large, flabby tongues too big for their mouths.—St. Louis Republic.

TIRED SALESWOMEN.

Employers Should Be More Considerate of Their Health.

Interesting Statement by a Young Lady in Brooklyn.

In the vast retail establishments of large cities, many women are employed as saleswomen.

Men formerly held the positions that women now hold, and while women's organism is less strong than men's they are expected to do the same work. Their duties compel them to be on their feet from morning to night, and many of them, in a short time, contract these distressing complaints called "female diseases."

Then occur irregularities, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, indigestion, leucorrhœa, general debility and nervous prostration.

They are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues and hopelessness.

In such cases there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. The following is a sample:

"My dear Mrs. Pinkham:—After writing you, and before your answer came, I was too miserable to go to the store, and so lost my position. That was five weeks ago. I am now back again in my old place, and never felt so well in all my life. The bearing-down pains and whites have left me, and I am not a bit nervous or blue. Life looks brighter to me. I don't get tired, my temper is real sweet, and I could scream right out sometimes for joy.

Your Vegetable Compound is my standby. You don't know how thankful I am to you for saving me from suffering. Every woman in my position should know of your wonderful remedy. I never saw you, but I love you for being so good to me."—Edith——W. 6th Ave., Brooklyn, N. Y.

GEORGE H THOMPSON, Editor.
J. F. ROBINSON, A. E. NICHOLSON, City Editors.

THURSDAY, NOV. 5, 1896.

A practical test of the election law amendments passed by the last legislature shows that they are of no practical value and a hindrance to a quick canvass and determination of the result. The impenetrably sheet proved an unmitigated nuisance, and the sealing up of the returns seems to have been specially devised to make it impossible for newspapers to verify returns received from outside sources.

Secretary Carlisle, yesterday, removed Thomas F. Brantly, of North Carolina, and Burton T. Doyle, treasury officials, for making speeches for Bryan during the campaign. If it was wrong for these men to make speeches, it was also wrong for Mr. Carlisle to make speeches, but nobody talks of dismissing Mr. Carlisle. He is not likely to be in a position to wreak vengeance on Democrats again after March 4th. He has doubtless received all the honors he will ever get from the Democratic party.

It may be taken for granted that Thomas C. Platt will be David B. Hill's successor in the United States Senate and the interesting question arises what will be his attitude toward the McKinley administration. It is altogether probable that Platt will be anxious to let by-gones be by-gones, but McKinley may have a long memory and may not be willing to forget or forgive the insults Platt heaped on him in newspaper interviews prior to the assembling of the St. Louis convention.

Plans are already being discussed by prominent Democrats for a reorganization of the party in this State. No line of policy has as yet been formulated, but the necessity is recognized of making the plan of reorganization broad and liberal. No one is to be proscribed for anything done or left undone in the past. The old factional differences between Hill men and Cleveland men are to be ignored, as are also the more recent division on gold and silver lines, and every man who calls himself Democrat is to be welcomed into the reunited party which, chastened and yet strengthened by defeat, is expected to soon redeem the State.

STRUCK BY AN ELECTRIC CAR.

A Carriage Smashed and a Man and Two Women Thrown Out — A Very Narrow Escape.

A man named Faulkner and two women were driving on Wickham avenue, last night. A car was approaching and when it was within thirty feet of him Faulkner drove across the track. The car struck the rear end of the wagon, broke two hind wheels and the axle and threw out all of the occupants, but none were injured except one of the women who received a trifling scalp wound.

The driver of the wagon was wholly to blame. It was good luck and not good management on his part that saved he and his companions from being killed. One of the girls said afterward that she told him the car was coming and he deliberately drove upon the track.

Fainted While Fulfilling the Terms of a Wager.

Through a pouring rain, in a two wheeled vehicle that resembled a Japanese jinrikisha, George Zeuit, a merchant at Highland Falls, this county, was borne through that place, yesterday, by John Dunbar, a blacksmith, who had wagered that Bryan would carry New York city by 50,000 votes. Dunbar's task was not an easy one, as the winner of the wager weighed nearly three hundred pounds. The wagon was decorated with American flags and Chinese lanterns. Dunbar fainted from fatigue.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Emeline Brooks.

Emeline, widow of John Brooks, died, yesterday morning, at 11:30 o'clock, at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Robert H. Hudson 14 Cottage street, aged eighty years. Mrs. Brooks had been a resident of Middletown for about eighteen years, coming here from Highland Mills, which was her home after the death of her husband.

Mrs. Brooks was a daughter of Amos and Elizabeth (Mackey) Thorn. The cause of death was Bright's disease and she was confined to her bed about three weeks.

Her son, Wm. H. Brooks, died last June at Central Valley. The daughters are: Elizabeth, widow of Henry Woodruff, of Central Valley; Mary J., wife of Robert H. Hudson, and Lavinia S., widow of Obediah Smith, both of this city; Emma C., wife of Charles Weygant, of the town of Wallkill. Mrs. Brooks is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Belinda Earl, of Highland Mills, and Mrs. Ephraim Tompkins, of Cornwall-on-Hudson, and by two brothers, Andrew J. Thorn, of Cornwall-on-Hudson, and Charles Thorn, of New Windsor.

James K. Hayden.

James K. Hayden, a well known farmer of the town of Wallkill, died at 4 o'clock, this morning, at his home near Mud Mills, after a lingering illness. Mr. Hayden was injured by a mowing machine in July, but did not think it at all serious. He never fully recovered and his injuries, with a complication of disorders, finally resulted in his death.

Mr. Hayden was born in Ireland, about fifty-one years ago, and came to this country about twenty-nine years ago. He was married in 1872 to Miss Margaret O'Sullivan, of Port Jervis, who with eight children survive him. They are Jennie L., of Hartford, Conn., Michael J., Sarah L., Maud T., Mary A., Catharine M., Florence A. and William J.

He is also survived by three brothers, Thomas of Liverpool, Patrick of Illinois and Michael of Flushing, L. I., also by one sister, Mrs. Mary Birmingham of Rainbow Conn.

The funeral will be held Saturday at 9:30 a. m. from his late residence, with requiem high mass at St. Joseph church, at 10:30. Interment in St. Joseph's cemetery.

William R. Dewsnap.

William R. Dewsnap, of Mechanicstown whose death was mentioned Tuesday, was born Oct. 9, 1896, near what is now Weehawken. His father was George Dewsnap, who was born in England and came to this country about 1835. His mother was Susanna Garfield, a granddaughter of Abram Wheeler, who was Washington's Commissary.

His boyhood and early manhood were passed in Johnstown, N. Y., where his father was among the first to establish the glove and leather business.

In 1865 Mr. Dewsnap and his father came to Orange county, looking for a suitable spot to establish a new plant for glove making and settled at Mechanicstown, erecting a building on the site of the present one. The first building was destroyed by fire in 1879.

He is survived by his mother and three brothers, Mark H., of Boston, George P. of this city, and Samuel G. of Seattle, Wash., also one sister, Mary, wife of Dr. D. L. Hunsicker, of the State Hospital. A brother and two sisters died in infancy, and many will remember another sister, Susie Dewsnap, who was sent by the First Presbyterian Church of Middletown as a missionary to Africa, where after nearly six years of work among the West African tribes she fell a victim to the deadly African fever, and was buried at Gaboon Mission Station.

Mr. Dewsnap was married May 8th, 1873, to Miss Sarah Tryon, daughter of Samuel W. Tryon, who, with four children, William R., Jr., Lillian, Harry W. and Stanley, survive.

Mr. Dewsnap was a member of the First Presbyterian Church, joining in 1867.

At the time of his death he was Justice of the Peace of the town of Wallkill.

Didn't Spend a Cent.

Alderman Joshua Hirst was the first candidate to file a statement of election expenses. He did not spend a cent to further his election, nor make any promises of future payment or consideration in exchange for votes.

HYMENEAL.

Baird—Tubbs.

A quiet wedding took place yesterday afternoon at the residence of Rev. F. A. Heath, the contracting parties being Alonzo Baird and Rachel Tubbs, both of Howells. The groom is employed as blacksmith with his uncle, Ira Baird, on Canal street. They will start housekeeping at No. 9 West Main street, this city.

Lutes—Brower.

About seventy-five of the relatives and friends of Wilbur E. Lutes and Miss Maud Evelyn Brower gathered at the residence of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Brower, No. 17 Conning street, at 6 o'clock last evening, to witness their marriage.

The parlors and hall were beautifully decorated by Firnhaber with palms, potted plants, with festoons of ground pine, smilax and myrtle. The young couple stood during the ceremony in a bower of flowers and evergreens.

The ceremony, which was very impressive, was performed by Rev. J. N. Emory, pastor of the Universalist Church, and was the first marriage performed in this city by a clergyman of that denomination.

The wedding march was played by Mrs. Andrus, as the bridal party entered the parlor.

After the ceremony a wedding supper was served by Hasbrouck, the caterer.

Miss Elvira Tuthill, of New York, was the maid of honor, and John Faulkenburg and Charles Quackenbush were the ushers.

The bride was gowned in white taffeta silk, with chiffon trimmings, and carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

The maid of honor wore a dress of Nile green silk, trimmed with duchess lace. She carried a bouquet of pink carnations and a ray with the wedding ring.

After supper Mr. and Mrs. Lutes were driven to the depot and started on a wedding tour, which will include New York, Albany and Rochester. Their carriage was liberally decorated with old shoes, streamers and mottoes, and they were showered with rice as they left the house. A special car carried a large number of the guests to the depot, where more rice and old shoes were thrown, and the seat in the car was decorated in a way that told plainly that they were newly married.

Torpedoes were laid upon the rails, and were exploded as the train pulled out.

The bride received a large number of beautiful and valuable presents, among them being a silver tea service from Weller & Demarest, by whom she has been employed as cashier for the past seven years. The groom received from employes at the Erie depot a handsome adjustable Morris chair, in which they hope he will take much comfort in years to come.

The bride is a most estimable young lady, who has a very large circle of friends.

The groom is the ticket agent for the Erie at Main street, a popular member of Monhagen Hose Co., and enjoys the respect and esteem of all who know him.

Among the guests from out of town were C. S. Dewey and daughter, Miss Marvette, of Rochester, and Miss Sarah Pierce, of New York.

THE ARGUS unites with other friends of Mr. and Mrs. Lutes in congratulations and best wishes.

Nerve

Excitement, overwork and worry are ruining the health of thousands of women. Pure Blood is required to feed the nerves, a good appetite and digestive strength are demanded to keep the body strong and vigorous, and to restore the exhausted energies there must be sound and refreshing

Sleep

By its power to respond to all these needs Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved itself the greatest friend of women. Thousands write that they have been given health and strength by its use. It is the great blood purifier, and consequently the true nerve tonic.

"I feel that I should be warring in common gratitude should I fail to tell the benefit my wife has derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla. She became seriously ill from running ulcers, caused by poor blood and was strongly advised by a friend to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. She said it had cured her and would no doubt cure my wife. So we tried it, and to say that its effect is wonderful, is only using a mild expression. It appears to be building up a new constitution for her; and, as we are a family of eleven, there are eleven of us rejoicing at the result.

"If the foregoing induces only one person, suffering in the same manner, to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I shall feel more than rewarded." ELIJAH PACKER, 585 Monroe Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

IMPALED ON A PITCHFORK.

Irvin's Faithful Dog Tried to Drag Him Home and Was Found Guarding the Body.

Charles E. Irvin, proprietor of Maple Wood Farm, a milk dealer in Newburgh, met with a shocking death, yesterday afternoon, at his place in Crescent avenue, near Newburgh.

Mr. Irvin was out in a field drawing manure with a horse and cart. There was a troublesome hog there, and he got out of the cart, pitchfork in hand, to drive the stubborn animal out of the field. In getting over a stone wall he fell and a tine of the pitchfork penetrated his groin several inches. An artery was severed and the unfortunate man bled very freely. His large bloodhound was with him at the time and succeeded in dragging Mr. Irvin some distance toward his house before giving up the effort.

When neighbors reached the scene Mr. Irvin lay upon his back on the ground, having bled to death, and the faithful dog lay with his head and forepaws on his master's breast, guarding the body. Mr. Irvin was thirty-eight years old, and is survived by a widow and three young daughters. He has a brother, William Irvin who is engaged in the milk business in Brooklyn.

INCIDENTS AND HAPPENINGS IN GOSHEN.

Home From the Wedding Tour—A Chrysanthemum Exhibition—To Jollify Saturday Night.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

Joseph Miastromani and wife have returned from their wedding tour, a greater part of which was spent among relatives at Westfield, N. J. They will make their home with Pascal Romires, brother of Mrs Miastromani.

—Miss Henrietta Coleman, of Newburg, is visiting friends in this village.

—Quite a number of Goshen Republicans went to Middletown last night to witness the Republican celebration.

—A number of the friends of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Edsall attended an informal chrysanthemum exhibit at the Edsall home last night. The display was an exceptionally handsome one, comprising a profusion of varieties and an opulence of gorgeous color. Mr. Edsall is an enthusiastic lover of flowers and a skillful horticulturist. Under his care the grounds adjacent to his residence on the corner of Grand and Spring streets in the summer time, present as beautiful appearance as the grounds of any residence to be found in the county.

—The Republicans of the town of Goshen announce that they will have a jollification and parade Saturday evening to celebrate McKinley's victory, and they kindly invite all good Republicans to assist in the ceremony.

BURGLARS MAKE A HAUL.

Green's Taylor Shop Robbed—Garments Belonging to Customers and Some Cloth Stolen.

Recorder Bradner and several others mourn the loss of overcoats, which were stolen last night from George Green's taylor shop on West Main street, at the corner of Wickham avenue. The burglary, which was evidently the work of tramps, was committed some time after midnight. Three iron wedges, such as are used on the brake shoes of freight cars, were used in an attempt to pry open the front door. This failed and a pane of glass in the window was broken.

The articles stolen were one blue frock overcoat, one chinchilla and two blue kersey overcoats, the latter with light colored linings; one black sack coat, two pairs trousers, black and white stripe, two and one-half yards each of black and blue cloth, and two black vests. There is no clue to the thieves. The loss is a serious one to Mr. Green.

HELD FOR THE GRAND JURY.

The Negro Jackson Sent to Jail for Shooting Thomas Wood.

The negro Jackson who shot Thomas Wood during a drunken row on Fulton street election day, was arraigned before the Recorder yesterday on a charge of assault with intent to kill. He waived examination and was held without bail to await the action of the grand jury. He was taken to Goshen jail.

A Young Girl Missing.

A young girl living on Smith street left her home in a fit of anger Tuesday afternoon and has not since been heard from. She wore a dark brown suit with green velvet front and a brown alpine hat. Her friends desire to avoide publicity on her and their own account, but if the girl does not return or is not heard from very soon the matter will be placed in the hands of the police.

If the girl is wise she will return home at once. Any one knowing her whereabouts should notify her family at once.

You Will See

That it isn't enough merely to save money. Slowly and laboriously adding one dollar to another amounts to very little in itself. Your money must grow to count for much. Money grows most when invested in real estate. The fact is as plain as it is that twice two make four. It's just as plain, too, that property in Middletown is a gilt edged investment. This town isn't stagnant still. Middletown is growing, and real estate values are certain to steadily advance on that account. We have some very choice properties on our books, and those investing now are sure money makers.

Secured a Decree.

"I don't see that you have any case here," said the judge, thoughtfully. "It will not do to grant divorces for trivial causes, and I cannot see that there is any fault on either side serious enough—"

"It is not a question of either being at fault, your honor," interrupted the attorney for the plaintiff. "It is a question of two utterly irreconcilable natures; of incompatibility of temper that is beyond the power of time to remedy. They can never live together in peace."

"You have not proved that yet," suggested the judge.

"No, your honor," replied the attorney. "We left the strongest evidence to the last. I will now put some witnesses on the stand to show that she rides a bicycle and he doesn't."

"If that is admitted," said the judge, promptly, "it is unnecessary to proceed further. I will grant a decree."—Chicago Post.

Judge—What cause have you to offer for not desiring to serve upon the panel?

A MUCH EMBROIDERED TALE.

A Port Jervis Paper's Yarn about an Attempt to Lynch a Negro in this City.

The Port Jervis Gazette tells a startling story of the shooting affray on Fulton street, Tuesday afternoon, in which, it says, Captain Gould captured the negro after wounding him in the leg, and to ends with the sentence: "Jackson had a narrow escape from lynching at the hands of the Middletown mob."

Jackson did not have a narrow escape, and there was neither talk nor even thought of lynching. The Gazette story was drawn largely from the imagination. The writer doubtless thought he was writing about a Port Jervis mob. Middletown doesn't have mobs nor lynch negroes.

INDIAN SUMMER DAYS.

No Certainty as to the Dates of That Pleasant Season.

From the Elmira Gazette.

Authorities disagree concerning the exact dates which bound Indian summer. If November brings us blue skies and warm air then the perfect days which generous Mother Nature has been granting lately were October weather not Indian summer, but, if November's days prove only melancholy, then those bright hours must be christened by the name which has come down to us from the long ago when the Indians employed the last days of fall in laying up store for the winter.

The November Visitor.

The November number of the Visitor, the parish magazine published in the interest of St. John's Church, Goshen, is a distinct improvement on any of the previous numbers. The magazine has been enlarged and is printed from new and handsome type. The current number contains much matter of interest to both Catholic and non-Catholic readers.

An Important Difference.

To make it apparent to thousands, who think themselves ill, that they are not afflicted with any disease, but that the system simply needs cleansing, is to bring comfort home to their hearts, as a costive condition is easily cured by using Syrup of Figs. Manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Company only, and sold by all druggists.

BARELY ESCAPED DEATH.

Baggagemaster Martin Has a Very Close Shave.

From the Port Jervis Union

That Thomas Martin, the genial baggagemaster on trains 21 and 6 on the New York division is alive today can be attributed to the intervention of Divine Providence.

Just as train 6 was passing under the overhead bridge about one mile west of Paterson Tuesday, one of the brake shoes on engine 837 which was attached to the train, broke, and was hurled in some inconceivable manner against the abutment and thence bounded back and crashed through the window of the baggage car, barely escaping Mr. Martin's head.

The shoe brake is a very heavy and solid piece of iron and would no doubt have dealt a death blow if it had struck the baggagemaster.

THE LEAP YEAR DANCE.

The Young Ladies Decide to go on With It—A Meeting Saturday Afternoon.

The young ladies interested in the leap year dance, which it is proposed to hold at the Casino, Thanksgiving eve, met yesterday afternoon, and decided to complete the arrangements and hold the dance. It was thought by some that the dance would conflict with a private reception which a party of ladies will give at the Casino before Thanksgiving, but a majority of those present were of the opinion that neither dance would interfere with the other, and the matter was decided as stated.

A meeting of those interested in the dance will be held at the Casino, Saturday afternoon, at 3.30 o'clock. A full attendance is desired.

TRADING IN DISEASED CATTLE.

The Country Scoured for Sick and Old Cattle.

From the Elmira Gazette

A traveling man, whose business leads him much into the country districts, says that the large number of diseased cattle bought from the farmers for city canning factories and markets is appalling. Some of the buyers make no secret of their object in purchasing animals fit only for death and burial, and a few make merry over their trading. During the past two weeks one man has thoroughly canvassed the farms in Northern Pennsylvania for old, diseased cattle for a bologna sausage factory in Philadelphia.

Ancient Twins.

From the Norwich Telegraph

Homer, in Cortland county, can boast of the oldest twins in the country. They are Mrs. Mercy Parker and Mrs. Lucy Osborne, twin daughters of Roswell and Lucy Brown, pioneer residents of that town. Nearly all of the eighty-three years of their lives have been spent there. Both are great-grandmothers, and both have been permitted to survive their second husbands.

"My Dad the Devil."

Frank M. Wills, Montie Collins and Miss Norma Wills surrounded by a very clever company will present the high class comedy, "My Dad the Devil," at the Casino theatre, next Monday night.
